Front-end web developer based in Shropshire, UK

PROFILE

Self-taught developer with a passion for accessibility, user-focused web design, and optimisation across all screen sizes. I'm quick at adapting to new applications and technologies, always on the hunt for a new challenge with a positive outlook on future projects. I have experience with client interaction, can work efficiently across operating systems and collaboration tools such as Git and CodeKit, and understand the importance of clear web standards together with semantic markup. Looking to find equally passionate teams in this vibrant industry to work with and see ideas through to their completion.
